Low-down on what Super Tuesday Is All About for Greenbelt Voters

by Elaine Skolnik

The upcoming "Super Tuesday" presidential primaries on March 8 appear to have generated little interest in Greenbelt. Registration in the city has declined significantly since 1984. Total registration in both the county and the Fifth Legislative Congressional District, however, have increased slightly. (See chart.) Local political pundits opine that a major factor behind this apathy is the change of primary date from "balmy" May to "wintry" March.

As the Democratic and Republican parties head into the contests the name of the game is delegates. Up for grabs in Maryland's eight congressional legislative districts are 44 Democratic and 24 Republican delegate seats. Additional delegates — 33 for the Democrats and 17 for the Republicans — will be selected in the spring by the State Central Committee of both parties.

Maryland Republicans and Democrats will also be voting on March 8 for their presidential preference and for United States Senator and representatives to Congress. In the Fifth Congressional Legislative District, which includes Greenbelt, Senator Paul H. Sarbanes is seeking a third term and Congressman Steny Hoyer a fourth term.

Of key interest on "Super Tuesday" is how a total of 1,307 Democratic and 803 Republican delegates in 20 states — 14 of them in the south — and one U.S. territory will split among the presidential candidates. Winners will attend national conventions this summer where they will nominate their party's standard-bearer in the November presidential general election.

Democrats

According to staff members of the Democratic National Committee, 77 delegates and 22 alternates from Maryland will be among the 4,162 delegates attending the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta, July 18-21. To be nominated the presidential standard-bearer for the party, a candidate must garner 2,082 delegate votes.

Of the 77 Maryland delegates, 44 will be elected on "Super Tuesday" (along with 14 alternates); 10 will not be pledged to any candidate and will come from the ranks of party and elected officials; nine will be party leaders and elected officials chosen by the Democratic State Committee in May, and will attend the convention bound to a candidate; and 14 at-large delegates and eight alternates will be selected by the central committee. (Any registered Marylander may apply to the central committee for consideration as a delegate.)

An important change in the rules this year stipulates that a candidate who receives 15% or more of the statewide vote will receive a proportionate share of the 23 delegates chosen by the State Central Committee. Delegates attending the Democratic National Convention are theoretically not bound to support candidates to whom they are pledged. However, a spokesperson for the National Committee said that according to the rules, "delegates must vote in good conscience according to the wishes of the people who voted for them."

Republicans

The Republican National Convention will be held in New Orleans, August 15-18. Among the 2,277 participating delegates will be 41 delegates from Maryland — 24 elected in the March 8 primary and 17 by the Republican State Central Committee. (Any registered Republican in Maryland may apply to the central committee to be considered for inclusion in the latter group.)

Primary - March 8

Primary Day 1988 is Tuesday March 8. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at Greenbelt's four polling places — Center School (third precinct); St. Hugh's School (sixth precinct); Springhill Lake School (eighth precinct); and Eleanor Roosevelt High School (thirteenth precinct).

Only registered Democrats and Republicans may vote in the primary.

The presidential standard bearer for the Republican party must obtain a majority vote (50% plus 1) of the 2,227 delegates attending the convention.

According to a spokesperson for the Republican party, rules stipulate that the three elected delegates from each congressional district in Maryland are all bound at the convention to the presidential candidate who finishes first in that district for two ballots. Similarly the 17 delegates selected by the State Central Committee must support the top statewide presidential preference.

However, delegates at the national convention may be released if the presidential candidate to whom they are bound withdraws, releases them or fails to receive 35% of the votes on the first ballot.

Each of the 41 delegates attending the convention will choose one alternate.

Who's on the Ballot

by Elaine Skolnik

When Greenbelt's registered Democrats and Republicans close the curtains of their polling booths next Tuesday, they will be facing the designated primary ballots for the Fifth Congressional Legislative District. Those who declined party affiliation or are registered in other than the Republican or Democratic parties are ineligible to vote on March 8.

The upper portion of the ballot is reserved for Democrats, the lower portion for Republicans. On the Democratic side the contenders for the presidential nomination are Bruce Babbitt (his withdrawal from the race came too late to delete his name from the ballot), Albert Gore, Jr., Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr., Michael S. Dukakis, Gary W. Hart, Paul Simon, Richard A. Gephardt and Jesse L. Jackson. There is also an "Uncommitted to any Presidential Candidate" lever.

In the contest for United States Senator, A. Robert Kaufman and B. Emerson Sweatt are challenging incumbent Paul S. Sarbanes. Congressman Steny Hoyer faces no Democratic opposition in the primary and, therefore, does not appear on the ballot.

Fifty-six candidates (see list elsewhere in this issue) are competing for delegate and alternate seats to the Democratic National Convention in July. (The number of delegates to be elected statewide varies from six to nine in each of Maryland's eight districts, based on a formula involving population and the number of Democrats voting in previous elections. Also, the final counts of delegates statewide must be equally divided between men and women. The male and female delegate candidates are listed on the ballot in separate categories.)

In the fifth district, Democrats can vote for no more than three female and no more than four male delegates. The top two female and three male vote-getters will become delegates, while the runners-up will be alternates. (In the fourth district, for example, the numbers are reversed.) Listed above each delegate's name is the presidential candidate to whom the delegate is committed. Some delegates are designated as uncommitted.

Several Greenbelters are running as delegates. Keith Chernikoff is committed to Michael Dukakis, Diane M. Cameron and Thomas X. White are pledged to Gary Hart; Janis M. Hagey will support Paul Simon; and Lisa Joy Ross is uncommitted. Another delegate hopeful is Jesse Jackson supporter Virginia Beauchamp of College Park (not

by Diane Oberg

The Greenbelt City Council and representatives of the Roosevelt Center businesses met in a worksession on February 9 to explore a possible new funding source for Center activities.

Ted Abernathy of the Prince Georges County Economic Development Agency explained the general workings of a Commercial District Management Authority (CDMA). The Authority, which would require city legislation in order to be established, would be funded by a tax or mandatory fee imposed on the businesses and property owners in the center. All revenues raised would be used for center activities related to marketing, promotion, esthetics or security.

Abernathy said that CDMA's were modeled after the merchants' associations at suburban malls, which all merchants must join. He described a CDMA as a situation where everyone benefits and everyone pays.

However, attorney Bill Edwards said that the professional groups located in the Professional Building would receive fewer benefits from promotional activities than the center merchants. But Linda Callahan argued that the professionals will benefit. She said that if the center is not revitalized, the professionals will have difficulty attracting clients. Abernathy said that professionals are generally assessed a lower fee than merchants are, in recognition of the lesser benefits received.

Currently there are six CDMA's in Baltimore, and one each in College Park and Takoma Park, according to Abernathy. He said that it generally takes several years to establish a CDMA. The local enabling legislation established the constraints, regulations and fees for the CDMA. None of the existing CDMA's have as few businesses as the Roosevelt Center.

Assistant City Manager Michael McLaughlin estimated that up to $15,000 could be raised if a tax of 20 cents per square foot were assessed on all Roosevelt Center businesses. However, this figure includes assessments on the post office and several vacant businesses, and does not vary the fee for different types of businesses. (Municipal governments generally cannot tax agencies of the federal government, such as the Postal Service.)

Joe Timer was concerned about how the money would be spent and how much input the merchants would have concerning spending decisions. He suggested that since $15,000 is a limited amount of money, expenditures should be planned over a multi-year period, in order to maximize the benefits.

Several possible uses were suggested. Abernathy described what other CDMA's had done, including staging special events, distributing discount coupon books, holding city fairs and improving lighting. Steve Wright suggested seeking out new tenants. Councilmember Antoinette Bram suggested special decorative or holiday lighting.

While many CDMA's use the funds for esthetic improvements, Edwards saw few improvements possible. He said that the city-owned areas are well maintained, but saw little that could be done with the private property in need of repairs, such as facades, short of condemnation.

Under state law CDMA's cannot own, condemn or sell property. However, Abernathy described some Baltimore CDMA's where the city agreed to perform the necessary condemnations.

The councilmembers stressed that no further actions would be taken towards establishing a CDMA without clear indication that the businesses in the center wanted it. Councilmember Edward Putens called it a unique tax where the businesses can use the taxes they generate for their own benefit.

Get Out and Vote Tuesday

Next Tuesday is the only primary election Maryland will have this year. Surprised? So are a lot of other people. Marylanders, accustomed to voting in a primary held in May, don't appear to be concentrating on this early election. Registration figures are way down in Greenbelt and, despite the media hoopla, people don't seem to be talking much about politics yet.

But for those who are registered to vote, it is time to do some thinking and deciding. Four years ago the presidential candidates were almost determined before Marylanders even held their primary: Reagan was unopposed on the Republican side and Mondale had a firm grip on the Democratic nomination.

This year, Maryland is part of super Tuesday. No one seems exactly sure how this early primary will work out, but Maryland voters will have a real chance to influence the presidential nominations of both parties. We urge those Greenbelters who are registered to go to the polls on Tuesday and vote for the candidates and delegates of their choice. There is no more important civic duty.

Ella Mylott

Ella Paige MacNear Mylott, 88, of Lakecrest Drive died January 25, at Prince Georges County Hospital.

Mrs. Mylott, a retired schoolteacher, was born in Medford, Massachusetts. Prior to moving to Greenbelt in 1982, she resided in Venice, Florida for 15 years where she was a deaconess of the Venice United Church and an active member of the Venice Gardens Home Owners Association.

Her husband of 59 years, Henry G. Mylott, and a daughter, Shirley Mylott Wilson preceded her in death.

Mrs. Mylott is survived by a son, William E. Mylott, Sr. of Greenbelt, a daughter, Phyllis Mylott Maccabe of Meriden, Connecticut, 11 grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.

A memorial service officiated by the Rev. Walter Black, was held Saturday, February 12 at the Hines-Rinaldi Funeral Home, Silver Spring.

Beauchamps Book to Be Discussed on March 14

American Association of University Women, College Park branch meeting will be held on Monday, March 14, at the College Park Municipal Center at 7:30 p.m. In honor of Women's History Month, Dr. Virginia Beauchamp, English Department faculty, University of Maryland, will moderate a discussion of her book, A Private War, a chronicle of an abused wife of the Civil War period. All are invited. For information, please call 454-4526 (mornings), or 779-1643 (evenings).

CITY NOTES

The Greenbelt Connection was extremely busy. Citizens are reminded to schedule their rides for the particular day as soon as possible so that as many riders as possible may be accommodated.

The general and special details crews installed a fence around the Public Works Warehouse to secure the compound. The crews also removed old fence and excess concrete from the old Pepco plant off of Crescent Road and cleaned city underpasses.

Special trash pick up operated every day the week of Feb. 21. It takes two to four working days to service citizen's requests. Citizens are reminded to place their bulk trash on the service side of their homes.

The parks crew trimmed trees along city streets.

Greenbelt Museum Has Toy Exhibit

During the month of March, the Greenbelt Museum will feature a special toy exhibit. A number of children's games popular in the 1930s and 1940s have been donated to the museum. Of special interest is the Charlie McCarthy puppet, a donation from City Manager James K. Giese. Charlie McCarthy and his ventriloquist owner, Edgar Bergen, were popular radio figures of the 1930s and 1940s. In the 1950s they appeared on television.

Many new items have been added to the Museum collection recently. A set of depression glassware was donated, a mangle — used to press shirts, sheets, tablecloths and napkins and other flat household items — is on display. The mangle appeared at the Greenbelt Flea Market, last week-end, a contribution from the Springhill Lake Civic Association. The mangle was purchased by Sandra Smith who then donated it to the museum.

Many items are still needed for the museum. In particular, the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum are looking for World War II posters, a plain white linen tablecloth, eating utensils, pot holders, an iron and ironing board, and more period toys. Anyone who may want to donate such artifacts to the Museum should call the Museum at 474-1936 and leave a message, or contact Martha Sinden at 345-1669.

Research volunteers are also needed. FOGM is seeking persons who may want to research some of the artifacts in the Museum collection. These include glassware, perfume bottles, furniture and other period pieces.

Flea Market a Success!

To the Editor:

The February 27 flea market far surpassed the two previous one. Even before the doors opened, buyers gathered at the entrance eager for the bargains offered by the 19 participating organizations.

The milling crowd made it seem like old home week. They exchanged greetings and were elated to see each other after a long winter's stay. It was an event which brought together organizations from all sections of town; Greenbelt East, original Greenbelt, and Springhill Lake. It resembled a miniature Labor Day Festival.

This event was made possible through the efforts of Ann Pisano.

Thanks also to Julie McHale and John Capotosto, the two Youth Center staff persons who deserve a big hand for their great help in making the Saturday flea market a great success. They were pleasant and helpful throughout the day.

Greenbelt Pool Gets A Whole New Look

The outdoor pool is getting a complete facelift for the upcoming 1988 season as a result of the 1985 Bond Referendum. To meet the swimming needs of recreational swimmers and Greenbelt's competitive swim team, the pool facility will undergo extensive new and exciting design changes as proposed by City Council, staff and residents of the City of Greenbelt.

Highlighting these changes will be the unique beach end of the pool. Entrance into the pool will now be no hardship whatsoever as a gently sloped pool bottom gives easy access to deeper water.

For the more adventurous at heart, a new granite boulder slide will be built to make a "splash" into the pool. A spectacular waterfall will cascade water on people's heads.

Competitive programs will take no back seat to the overall design of this pool as a 25 meter bulkhead has been installed, for Greenbelt's active swim team. It is enhanced by a new rim flow gutter system for greater competitive speeds. A new baby pool has been constructed.

The grand opening of the municipal pool will be Saturday, May 28. Special events and entertainment are planned. Pool brochures will be mailed to all residents for the 1988 Season Pass.

Anniversary Workers Honored at Reception

At a reception on Wednesday evening, February 24, the city of Greenbelt honored the many citizen volunteers and city staff as well as those from outside Greenbelt, whose work helped to create the 50th anniversary celebration. The reception was held in the American Legion hall, which had been the site of several earlier events of that year-long festival, among them the complimentary luncheon for members of the original Greenbelt families. During the evening the city council and city manager Jim Giese hosted a light buffet for those honored and their guests and then passed out individual certificates of appreciation.

Those receiving awards were called up as committees or work groups, with certificates being presented to the members of each group by a member of the city council. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld and councilmembers Toni Bram, Tom White, and Ed Putens all participated. (Mayor Pro Tem Joe Isaacs had an earlier commitment and was unable to be present.)

The certificates, which had been designed by Giese for the occasion, carried the gold seal of the city. Each had been signed by the five members of council, under the legend: "In the name of The Citizens of Greenbelt." Beneath the name of the recipient and a description of the volunteer activity recognized was the descriptive paragraph: "In commemorating Greenbelt's 50th Anniversary, the contribution of talent, initiative, and combined efforts of all volunteers resulted in an unforgettable year long celebration, testifying to the cooperative spirit in which this community was founded and continues to prosper."

Each certificate was enclosed in a glossy white folder bearing on the cover the "Greenbelt is 50" logo. Jay Brubacher, designer of all the logos and graphic work used throughout the celebration, was among those receiving recognition.

Host Families Sought

World Exchange, a non-profit organization specializing in foreign exchange programs, is seeking families or individuals to host foreign students.

The students will arrive in July and August, and will stay for four weeks. The students range in age from 13 to 20 years old, and have studied English for at least two years.

Host families need not have a spare private room, nor is it necessary to have children the same age in the home.

For information on becoming a host family, or about traveling abroad, please contact World Exchange's regional program director, Wendy Becker at (301) 794-7184.

Agent Orange Victims Sought by Commission

The Maryland Agent Orange Commission wishes to register Vietnam veterans whose health may have been affected by exposure to Agent Orange.

Among the concerns are health problems ranging from cancer, nervous disorders, miscarriages and birth defects.

Veterans should contact the Commission at 113 West Franklin St., Baltimore, Md. 21202 or phone (301) 332-1NAM.

Everything You Wanted to Know about State Taxes

"If you've been wondering what happened to Maryland's windfall from federal tax reform, most of the answer is inside your 1987 Maryland income tax packet," according to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

State income taxpayers will find tax breaks totaling nearly $82 million when they begin filling out their 1987 tax returns. New, higher personal exemption and standard deduction amounts; a new head of household filing status; a new earned income credit; a unique capital gains benefit and important changes for senior citizens are all part of the way the General Assembly restructured Maryland's income tax law.

The new personal exemption has been increased to $1,000 from the previous $800.

"The extra exemption claimed by elderly and blind taxpayers in the past has been replaced by an extra $800 standard deduction for each qualifying taxpayer and spouse," Goldstein added.

Maryland's standard deduction increased to 15% of the adjusted gross income, from the previous 13%, with new minimum and maximum levels. With the new standard deductions more people will be able to file simpler, standard deduction returns this year.

Goldstein said that Maryland has now adopted the head-of-household filing status, which has appeared on the federal return in previous years.

Maryland now has an earned income credit, equal to one-half of the federal tax credit, with the same qualifications. "Taxpayers who qualify for this credit can reduce their state tax as much as $425.50, but cannot reduce their tax below zero," Goldstein said.

While treatment of capital gains has changed dramatically on the federal return, Maryland allows taxpayers to subtract 40% of their net capital gains from their Maryland taxable income. A new form 502CG is included in the state tax packet.

The tax packet itself has been redesigned from cover to cover to help taxpayers. The new gold shades in the forms help distinguish them from federal forms.

"We've added charts to help taxpayers in a number of ways," Goldstein said. Senior citizens who usually itemize deductions should also figure their tax using the new, higher standard deduction and compare.

This year taxpayers can itemize deductions on the Maryland return only if they itemize on the federal return. They must include a copy of their completed federal Schedule A with their Maryland return.

"Considering the impact of federal tax reform, new Maryland legislation and the redesigned state forms and instructions, taxpayers have a lot to think about on their state return. But if you need help we're only a phone call or quick visit away," promises Goldstein. The toll free number for state tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Maryland income tax offices offer free state tax assistance Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., including all state holidays between now and the filing deadline, Friday, April 15.

"Tax experts will answer questions, provide necessary state forms, double-check calculations and even complete the Maryland return free of charge as long as you bring a completed copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements," Goldstein said.

The addresses and telephone number of all 15 Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories.

Judith Skillman Publishes First Book of Poems

The first book of poems by former Greenbelter Judith Skillman, daughter of Sid and Bernice Kastner was recently published.

Entitled Worship of the Visible Spectrum, the book was selected as the 1987 winner of the King County Arts Commission Book Award, which had awarded the author a grant toward publication of the book.

Comments from the cover include University of Maryland English professor Rod Jellema's observations that "What Judith Skillman's poems achieve is the domestication of energy and matter. The scientist's clean exactness meets the artist's need to give substance to every wave or particle of implication . . . Judith Skillman succeeds in transforming the world."

After earning B.S. and M.S. degrees in English Literature from the University of Maryland, Skillman moved to Bellevue, Washington, where she lives with her husband Tom and children Lisa, Drew and Jocelyn. She teaches writing at the Literary Center in Seattle. Her poems have been widely published in journals and anthologies in the Washington State area.

For information on obtaining the book call Ruth Kastner at 474-5605, or see ad elsewhere in this issue.

The Roosevelt Rap

by
Kirsten Schimpff, Lauren Barker,
Lisa Orenstein, Cora Dickson

As the second quarter of the school year drew to a close earlier this month, Eleanor Roosevelt High School once again upheld its reputation for academic excellence, with 93 students achieving a 4.0 or higher grade point average. In addition, over 350 students received a 3.5 or above. Fourteen of the 4.0 honor roll students were from Greenbelt: ninth grade, Rachel Derin, Hong-Yuan Hu, and David Israel; tenth grade: William Chee, Mariesa Hales, Elizabeth Heaney, and David Krieger; eleventh grade, Brian Chung, Carolyn Drake, Alexander Gomelsky, and Sailaja Pindiprolu; the twelfth grade, In Chu, Kenneth Chu, and Pamela Leadbetter. The highest grade point averages in the school were achieved by Lisa Hawkins and Jeff Jones. Each had a grade point average of 4.57 for the second quarter.

Congratulations are in order to the Eleanor Roosevelt swimming and wrestling teams. The boys swim team took first place at the county meet, while the girls team placed second. Qualifying members of both teams will advance to the Metro Champions meet on February 27. The wrestling team won second place in the County Title match on February 20 at Largo High School. Steve Thornley, Praveen Bahethi and Clive Monnity took individual first places in the county tournament.

Events

On March 10, the Concert Orchestra, Concert Band II, Wind Ensemble, and Flute Choir will perform for parents and students at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium. Admission for both concerts is free.

On Saturday, March 12 the Eleanor Roosevelt Science and Engineering Fair will be held at the Media Center from 8:30 to 5.

Who's on the Ballot; Other Election Day Information to be confused with the News Review staff and board member of the same name).

On the Republican side, the presidential candidates are George Bush, Alexander Haig, Robert J. Dole, Jack Kemp, Pierre du Pont and Pat Robertson. (The withdrawal of Haig and du Pont came too late to delete their names from the ballot.)

Pitted against each other for the nomination in the U. S. Senate race are a field of nine hopefuls - James Gordon Bennett, Monroe Cornish, Herbert Rosenberg, Thomas L. Blair, Patrick L. McDonough, John C. Webb, Jr., Albert Ceccone, Horace Stuart Rich and E. Robert Zarwell.

The Congressional contest will see John Eugene Sellner and Gregory K. Washington vying for the nomination.

Twenty-one Republicans (see list) are competing for delegate seats at the Republican National Convention in August. Male and female delegates are listed together under one category on the ballot. Some have the presidential candidate to whom they are committed listed above their names. Others are listed without any designation. Republicans do not have the option of voting for "uncommitted" delegates.

In the Fifth Congressional District, Republicans may vote for no more than three delegates. The winners will choose their own alternates.

Registration Down

Democratic registration in Greenbelt exceeds that of the Republicans 2.6 to 1. In 1984 the margin was 2.8 and in 1980 and 1976 Democrats had a 3 to 1 edge.

Some 4,551 Democrats and 1,753 Republicans are eligible to vote next Tuesday in Greenbelt. Since 1984, Democratic and Republican registration sustained a significant decline in the city's four precincts - the Democrats down by 25.7%, the Republicans by 18.8%. At the same time, the drop in registration for the Democrats in the county and in the congressional district was minimal while the Republicans registration showed a slight increase over 1984 at both governmental levels.

Since 1984 there was also a 19% drop in registration of the city's Unaffiliated (Independent) voters, who can only cast ballots in non-partisan elections. Only Precinct 6 (St. Hugh's School) showed an increase in this category.

there were only three precincts in the city. Precinct 13 in Greenbelt East had not yet been established.

Absentee Ballots

According to the county's Board of Elections, persons needing absentee ballots must now obtain them at the Board of Elections office in Upper Marlboro. Those voters who have already received absentee ballots must return their voted ballot "not later than 8 p.m. on election day." For more information about "emergency" absentee ballots, call the election office at 952-3270.

Turnout

In the May 1984 presidential primary, 44.3% of Greenbelt's Democrats voted and 21.7% of the Republicans. In the 1980 primary the Republicans' turnout was higher - 41.9% of the eligible voters - while 40% of the city's registered Democrats voted. The 1976 presidential primary brought out 51% of the registered Democrats and 39% of the Republicans. At that time

What is a Tooth Veneer?

Modern dentistry has developed many new techniques for restoring decayed, broken or malformed teeth in addition to the traditional crown. One such method is the Veneer.

A veneer is an entirely new, preformed front which can be bonded to one or more teeth to cover over a discoloration or other defect. Bonding utilizes microscopic pores in teeth in conjunction with a special adhesive and eliminates the need to remove additional tooth structure, as is necessary with crowns.

Proper evaluation by your dentist is essential for success. Such factors as tooth shape, biting force and proper jaw relationship all need to be considered.

Report Outlines State's Goals in Recreation Lands

Protection of the Chesapeake Bay, acquisition of land for recreation and open space, preservation of forest and agricultural land, and discouragement of urban sprawl are identified as high priority State policies in the FY 1988 Maryland Recreation and Open Space Action Program. Governor William Donald Schaefer voiced his support of the goals of the Action Program.

The Action Program lists ten policies to promote land preservation and recreation. Following each policy are listed the specific actions which the State will take to implement the policy. The report assigned top priority to Chesapeake Bay matters. High priority was given to acquisition of land for recreation and open space, preservation of forest and agricultural land, discouragement of sprawl development, support of private recreational investments, and tourism.

The program was prepared in compliance with planning regulations of the U.S. National Park Service to provide the framework for the State's participation in the Land and Water Conservation Fund grants-in-aid program. As a result of the program, the State has received funds to buy land for State Parks, Natural Resource Management Areas, and Wildlife Management Areas.

Copies of the report are available from the Department of State Planning, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland, 21201. When making requests, ask for publication 87-16 and make check payable to the Department of State Planning for $5.00. For more information contact Michael Jay Bass, 225-4500.

Extra Tax Deduction Is Available to Seniors, Blind

When completing their 1987 federal income tax returns, taxpayers age 65 or older or blind may be missing an additional standard deduction of $1,210 for a single person to as much as $3,640 for a married couple filing jointly. This could mean paying from $182 to $546 more in taxes than necessary.

For 1987 the personal exemption nearly doubled and is now worth $1900. However, the extra exemption for being age 65 or older, or for being blind was repealed by the Tax Reform Act of 1986. While most elderly and blind taxpayers seem to know that they are no longer allowed the additional exemption for age or blindness, a lot of these same taxpayers are missing out on the benefit that replaced it - an extra standard deduction, which is $1,210 to $3,640 more than the regular standard deduction for those under 65 and not blind.

The correct way to take advantage of the dramatically increased standard deduction is to check the appropriate box or boxes in line 32a of form 1040 or line 14a if filing from 1040A and then referring to the charts on page 16 of the 1040 instructions or page 23 of the 1040A instructions. Depending upon filing status (single, married/joint, married/separate, or head of household) and the number of boxes checked (1, 2, 3 or 4), the charts will give the exact standard deduction to place on line 33b if filing the 1040, or on line 14d if filing the 1040A. As the chart shows, this increased standard deduction can range from $3750 to as high as $7400.

If taxpayers have questions concerning their standard deduction for 1987, they should contact IRS by calling 488-3100, or drop by any of the 12 local of-

by Dial G. Silvers

On February 20, "The Commonwealth Brass," gave a most enjoyable musical performance at The Greenbelt Arts Center.

The program, of sixteen selections, contained drama, some somber moments, sensitive accompaniment, and a bit of humor to delight youngsters and adults alike. Familiar favorites included selections from Porgy and Bess by George Gershwin, William Tell Overture by Gioacchino Rossini, Outings for Brass by Andre Previn, and The Stars and Stripes Forever by John Philip Sousa.

During the finale, "Divertissement" by James Barnes, one of the musicians directed the audience to pretend that they were at the circus and when he gave the signal, we were to show enthusiasm by whistling, cheering and clapping to everyone's delight. My 12 year old granddaughter, Shannon, was interested throughout the entire performance.

At intervals members of the quintet described the origin, history and made other comments regarding the selections and composers to help the audience better understand. The acoustics were good and so were the clear tones of the musicians. The pleased audience demanded and received an encore.

Police Blotter

Partial Listing Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

Radio reports heard by many Greenbelters on Friday, Feb. 26 concerning the discovery of a woman's body incorrectly gave a location within Greenbelt. The body was discovered near the Park and Ride where I-95 intersects with the Capital Beltway, according to Greenbelt's police spokesman David Buerger.

A strongarm robbery occurred Saturday, Feb. 20 about 6:45 p.m. in the 9100 block of Springhill Lane. A man walking his girl friend to her car was surprised from behind by three persons who wrestled him to the ground and then grabbed a duffle bag from the girl's hand. The suspects then fled. The duffle bag was recovered with nothing missing. The suspects wore masks and had red jackets with hoods.

A Greenbelt youth was arrested Feb. 21 at noon by Officer Steven Keller for breaking the passenger window of a vehicle at Greenbelt Lake in an effort to gain entry. The boy's actions were reported to police. He was released to his mother.

Two automobiles were stolen in Greenbelt this week. On Sunday, Feb. 21 a 1979 Olds Cutlass Supreme, 2 door, white body with blue vinyl top was stolen from the 8000 block of Lakecrest Drive. A 1977 Chevy Impala station wagon was reported stolen at noon on Feb. 20 from the 9100 block of Market Lane. The car was recovered at 10:30 that night in New Kent County by the Virginia State Police.

An attempt to steal a 1986 Chevrolet Nova was discovered on Feb. 25 at 8:50 a.m. by Officer Leslie Hodge while on routine patrol. After investigation, the officer determined the unlocked car had been entered and allowed to coast out of the parking space. When unable to start the car, the suspect had left it in the middle of the parking lot.

A rear license tag PFW-381 was removed from a 1986 Toyota Tercel parked in the 7900 block of Mandan Road.

Three attempts, one successful, were made at breaking and entering apartments in the 9300 block of Edmonston Road. In the first incident, a person attempting to gain entry by forcing a lock in a door handle was surprised and fled when the resident opened the door. The suspect was a 30-40 year old black male, 6 ft., 150 lbs., black hair, wearing a plaid shirt, beige jacket and pants, beige hat and brown suede shoes. Late Sunday afternoon a resident reported another break-in. Entry was forced, jewelry and cash were taken from a bedroom. In the third incident, on Monday at 3:30 p.m. an attempted breakin was reported by a resident who found her door key would not work. The lock had been tampered with, but the apartment was not entered.

On Tuesday, Feb. 23 at 11:30 a.m., U.S. currency was reported stolen from an apartment in the 9100 block of Springhill Lane during the previous day while the resident was at work. There were no signs of forced entry, but the sliding glass door to the balcony was found unlocked.

A Washington D.C. resident was arrested for shop lifting at Marshall's department store. She had been observed concealing towels under her dress. The 30-year-old female was held on $1500 bond.

Happy 70th Birthday to Mat Amberg!

We, the undersigned friends of Mat Amberg, join in wishing Mat a happy 70th Birthday

In the more than three decades that Mat, Rose and their three children have resided here, Mat has been a consistent voice for principle in matters affecting the members of GHI, as well as the Citizens of Greenbelt.

He has always been the conscience of GHI and the Conscience of the city. We have not always listened to him, but time and experience proved him right.

This has been the story of his life. We thank you Mat—again wish you a happy 70th! May you live to be 120!!
